

EWING FOUNDATION

for deaf children

The Ewing Foundation is a national charity supporting the inclusion and achievement of deaf children.

We offer a number of services to education professionals, schools, local authorities and resource provisions including technical support, consultancy and training. Please visit our website; www.ewing-foundation.org.uk to find out more about our work.

We are now recruiting a Specialist Audiology Technician for the North. We currently have three Specialist Audiology Technicians and they are in great demand. Therefore, we are keen to expand the team, especially within northern England.

This role will support specialist and mainstream professionals working directly with deaf children and young people, particularly in schools and educational settings, and involve regular checking, maintenance and repair of deaf learners' equipment. This role will also provide training in the use of specialist equipment such as wireless communication devices.

With an office base at the University of Manchester, and travelling across the UK, particularly northern England, this is an exciting and varied role. For the right person we will be flexible about the hours and the employment basis.

Want to know more?

Please visit our website to download a candidate information pack: www.ewing-foundation.org.uk/vacancies/

Please note the closing date for this role is 12 September 2019 at 12 midday.

We look forward to hearing from you!